Hackney-born Danny Augustine's work can be seen at Soho House 40 Greek Street, Redchurch Street Townhouse, in the bedrooms at Kettner's and at Soho Farmhouse. With Hockney Copy ii, the artist explores the idea of the 'reappropriation of imagery' and copyright. Kate Bryan, Soho House Head of Collections, says of the work, 'It's a love letter to Hockney but it's also a re-working in a very typically Danny Augustine way. I think it will really appeal to people because we all love Hockney but we're all excited by this young language that Danny's using.'
